DEWEY IS A DEMOCRAT.

THE INTERESTING CONTROVERSY AT LAST IS SETTLED.

"As I'm a Democrat," Says he, "We'll Go to The Club Which is Democratic."

New York, April 4—The Journal says that recently when Admiral Dewey visited a well known business man in New York, the latter proposed going to the club and said, "I'm a member of two, one of which is democratic and the other non-partisan, which do you prefer?" Dewey replied "As I am a democrat we might as well go to the club which is democratic." Accordingly they took luncheon at the Manhattan club.

WOULD ACCEPT THE PRESIDENCY.

Washington, April 4—Dewey said this morning that he would accept the nomination for president if it were offered him.

EVILS OF CHICAGO SWEATSHOPS

Mrs. Henrotin Describes the Conditions of the Many Places She Visits.

Chicago, Dispatch, April 1.

Mrs. Ellen M. Henrotin, the second witness before the sub-committe, of the Industrial Sub-Commission yesterday testified that as a member of the Consumers' League she had investigated the sweatshop system of this city and was horrified at the result.

"There are," said Mrs. Henrotin, "13,000 men, 11,000 women, 5,00 boys and 1,600 girls engaged in the garment makers' trade in Chicago. The unorganized condition of this trade brings about peculiar results. The boss sweaters, contrary to general belief are growing poor as a result of the constant reduction in prices.

"Of the thirty-six shops visited a year ago we found one-third had moved, which in itself shows poverty. At another place visited I found a woman, assisted by a consumptive looking girl of 16 years, finishing overalls, which consists of turning up the bottoms, working the button holes and sewing on the buttons at 10 cents a dozen. This woman had three children attending school. She and the girl worked continually and the two earned 35 cents a day.

"Young girls are subjected to much harm in these trades. The enormous number of girls from 16 to 20 years of age employed in this capacity is appalling and certainly is a menace to the future generation."

"Have you awakened the interest of the pubilc in these conditions?" asked Mr. Kennedy.

"I think we have, as considerable more interest is now shown than there was when our league was organized," replied Mrs. Henrotin.

"What is the attitude of the press toward your league, and does it lend you its aid?" asked Mr. Clark.

"The papers are glad to aid if in so doing they do not touch their advertising."

Miss Jane Adams of Hull House next testified that the only remedy of the sweatshop system would be the opening of shops or factories, from which the trade would derive great benefit. "The evil of the sweatshop system," continued Miss Addams, "is the irregularity of the work. Poor people work night and day for two months. Then business becomes slack and they do nothing for three or four months."

SCHREINER MOBBED.

Made a Speech and Declared the Treatment Unjust.

Capetown, April 4.—There was a great and enthusiastic meeting of the English resident's today, at which resolutions were adopted reaffirming the opinion of loyalists that the annexation of the Boer republics was the only solution of the South African troubles After the meeting the crowd met Schreiner, of Dutch Cape Colony, returning from luncheon, and mobbed him. Schreine took refuge in the parliament house and the police protected him. There were a number of arrests. Being protected by police, Schreiner afterward addressed the crowd. He protested against what he called the unjust attack and told the people that they had not been informed of the actual facts and declared that the results would show him as loyal as any body in the crowd, perhaps more so. He advised the singing of a national anthem, joining in himself.

NO REDUCTION OF TAXES.

Members are Afraid to Open the Floodgates of Eloquence.

Washington, April 4—Members of the senate finance committee say there is not much probability of any action being taken at the present session looking to a reduction of taxation, not because it should not be done, but because it would raise an interminable debate and prevent the early adjournment which it is proposed to effect if possible.

REDMOND'S DOOR PAINTED.

The Crowd Put a Union Jack on It Last Night.

Dublin, April 4—Some time last night, the Union Jack was painted at William Redmond's door. Redmond resigned from the Dublin corporation because it adoption a loyal address to the queen.

PRINCE OF WALES SHOT AT.

Supposed to be Result of Anti-British Feeling.

Brussells, April 4.—The Prince of Wales was shot at while leaving the railroad station here He was not hurt. It is supposed that the attempt on the prince's life was the result of the anti-British feeling prevalent on the continent owing to the Boer war. Two shots were fired.

The prince and princess started today for Copenhagen to attend King Christian's birthday. The shot was fired by a man as the train was leaving the northern station for the southern railroad station.

FEDERAL COURT DOTS.

Large Number of Visiting Lawyers in Attendance.

There is a large attendance of visiting members of the legal fraternity at this term of federal court. Among them we notice the following: District Attorney A. E. Holton, Assistant District Attorney Spencer Blackburn, Hon. R. B. Glenn and Mr. E. A. Griffith, of Winston; Mr. J. T. Brittian, of Asheboro; Mr. J. T. Benbow, Mr. J. Q. Holton and Mr. D. M. Reece, of Yadkinville; Mr. J. R. McCrary and Mr. Z. V. Walser, of Lexington; Col. A. H. Joyce, of Danbury; Mr. J. R. Lewellyn, of Dobson; Mr. J. F. Davis, of Wilkerboro; Mr. C. O. McMichael, of Madison, and Hon. Thos. Settle, of Asheville. Collector H. S. Harkness, of Asheville, is also here.

As yet no cases of special importance have been tried. A case came up this morning in which a young man was tried on a charge of carrying concealed weapons at Sunday school. Mr. E. A. Griffith, of Winston, appeared for the prosecution, and Mr. Spencer Blackburn for the defense. Mr Griffith introduced a young lady to prove the guilt of the young man, and her testimony was to the effect that he had a pistol, but that half of it was sticking out of his pocket. Mr. Griffith moralized a little and in strong terms denounced a man who would go to Sunday school with a gun, with the result that a young lady had to be dragged into court to testify against him. He argued further that while the young lady saw the pistol, the presumption was that it was concealed part of the time.

Mr. Blackburn, in reply, explained how he happened to appear for the defense instead of the prosecution, then referring to the dragging of the young lady into court, said he did not do it, and turning to Mr. Griffith with a look of scorn on his face, in thunder tones, demanded, "Who drug her here?"

It didn't make any difference to the jury who "drug" the young lady into court. The question for them to decide was whether or not he carried a concealed weapon, and they said not.

GOING TO LECTURE.

Mr. Davis Has a Number of Invitations Since He Resigned.

Correspondence of the Telegram.

Washington, April 4—The resignation of Hon. Webster Davis as assistant secretary of the interior has caused some surprise. It did not become generally known that he was contemplating resigning until Monday morning. The reasons assigned are now well known, that he will speak on the public platform in behalf of the Boers in their struggle for independence against Great Britain, which he regarded as somewhat inconsistent, as long as he occupied an official position under the administration. Mr. Davis returned only last week from a visit to South Africa. Since his return he has held many conferences with the president, but at the white house nothing concerning the resignation has been given out, and Mr. Davis is equally reticent as to what has passed between himself and the chief executive.

Much interest is now naturally manifested to hear Mr. Davis. His first appearance on the platform will be in this city next Sunday night. He is to lecture in behalf of the Boers, under a non-partisan arrangement. Mr. Davis stated Monday night that he had received many invitations to lecture in different cities of the Union, but thus far he has not accepted any of them with the exception of the Washington engagement. His future plans are yet to be decided.

Mr. Davis, it is learned has received an invitation to lecture on the same subject at Charleston, S. C It is thought that he will accept this invitation, and that he will appear at other places also in the southern states. He has received also many other invitations in the south already.

Washington, April 3 —The outlook for the adoption of the senate combined tariff and civil government of Porto Rico bill by the house is uncertain at the present writing. WEDNESDAY, APRIL 4 1900.

THE HONORABLE WEBSTER DAVIS

The Honorable Webster Davis, the Assistant Secretary of the Interior, has resigned his position for the purpose of taking the lecture platform in behalf of the Boers. We suspect that the Hon. Webster Davis' name is about his strongest combination, but that is neither here nor there. His sense of the fitness of things certainly numbers up about the head of his list of accomplishments. We congratulate him on the fact that, when he felt a call to go about over this country trying to arouse sentiment in behalf of a belligerent, he had the infinite good taste to resign an important administrative office of a neutral government. Of course we shall hear the usual squeaks about empires and republics, and that a man couldn't take the platform in behalf of down trodden humanity and remain a part of this American, empire-building administration. Certainly if Mr Davis is going into the lecture line he has acted wisely in giving up his office An officer is supposed to give some attention to his office.

What Mr. Davis expects to accomplish by lecturing in behalf of the Boers in this country we don't know, and if he knows he should not guard his secret too closely. He says that the tear-stained faces of the Boer women as they bade him good bye haunts him and he must let their condition be known in America. Does he intend to give his lectures and then take up a collection, or will he tell h's harrowing tale to his audience and then ask them to resolute and whereas? If he does neither of these maybe he will get up a monstrous petition asking Uncle Sam to extend his skinny fingers down to South Africa, clutch the collar of John Bull and set him down at home again. Or, if not that, perhaps he intends forming an immense army of volunteer Don Quixotes, and, as the supreme Don of the bunch, lead them into Africa and drive out the hated enemies of republics!

Serously, though, what good can come of Mr. Davis' project. He can hope only to create sentiment for the Boers, and what's the use of that, as American sentiment is already in their favor. They are not suffering half as much as some of the people in free America. We direct the Honorable Webster Davis' attention to the investigation now being made by a sub-committee of the Industrial Sub-Commission, of the sweatshop of Chicago.

NEW HAMPSHIRE'S INDUSTRY.

New Hampshire has long been noted for its rocks. It now bids fair to win fame in another direction. When everybody is at home and well this great state boasts of nearly 400,000 inhabitants. Every one of this vast population of this sovereign state has opened a boarding house for the accommodation of summer guests. In the boarding business they have invested $10,442,352, and every summer they entertain about 175,000 persons from outside their state. Think of there being over one half a boarder from the outside for every man, woman and child in a whole state! These guests leave yearly in the state $5,000,000 in return for their entertainment What an unhealthy climate for chickens!

DEMOCRATIC DOCTRINE

John Temple Graves of Georgia says:

I am an expansionist myself—an out and out, six days in the week, material, commercial, sentimental, missionary, Presbyterian expansionist, but I am not now and never will be an imperialist, and Porto Rico makes an "example sufficiently horrible" to turn the country from the idea of committing the real policy of expansion to hands as ruthless and unjust as those which are driving the president and congress at the present time.

That lick struck fire. That is your true Jefferson and Jackson democracy. It is the kind we believe in. It is the kind that Jno. T. Morgan, the ablest democrat in the south, stands for. It is the kind Thomas Jefferson had in mind when he said he hoped to see the day when Cuba would be a part of this country. It is the kind he had in mind when he was willing to go outside the constitution, as he thought, to buy Louisiana.

It's the kind that, if the democratic party could be tied to today, would lead it to an overwhelming victory in November. If the democratic party would adopt expansion—clean, honest, expansion—and protest against the miserable blunders and botches and brutality of the republican party, it would find lodgment in the hearts of people who never before have harbored it. Now is the opportunity of a century. The republicans have tried and failed, let the good old democratic party on a sane platform, demanding a strictly honest and conscientious administration of government in our new possessions—not a forsaking of them—and an extension of commerce and influence throughout the world, go before the country, and the people will go to its standards, but on a platform of retreat, never!

The democratic party ought to be brave enough and strong enough to counteract the early mistakes of the politicians, who, jumping at the conclusion anti-expansion would be a popular cry, adopted it forthwith, not waiting for the party to speak. We call attention of those those who are criticising democrats who believe in expansion to the fact that the party has not spoken on this subject yet and until it, does expansionists have as much right to speak as others. The politicians may write the platforms, but at least they cannot call upon any one to support them before they are written.

We love the democratic party. We love its history and traditions, and we would count it a proud day were it to come out on a sensible and humane expansion platform.

Admiral Dewey's pitiable deliverance that he wants to be president is shocking. He once had a chance of being the nations hero forever, but he has lost it. One Mr. Macbeth might have turned out differently had it not been for his wife. Getting married was Dewey's great mistake. It used to be quite the style for women to make kings, but they can't make presidents of the United States. Mrs. Dewey is fast turning a popular idol into a driveling old man.

The Charlotte Observer, a model of North Carolina journalism, came out this morning in a seven column, 8 page form, instead of six columns as heretofore. The change was made necessary by the increase of advertising matter. We heartily congratulate our contemporary. It has already long been an honor to the state.

DEWEY A CAND'DATE.

He Wants to be President And Announces That He is in the Race

New York, April 3—A special to the World from Washington says: "Admiral Dewey authorizes the World to announce to the American people that after mature reflection and in response to the earnest entreaties from all parts of the country, his former decision not under any circumstances to run for the presidency is recinded."

A World correspondent says the admiral at his home at 6 o'clock last evening. Admiral Dewey said: "I realize that the time has arrived when I must definitely define my position. When I arrived in this country last September I said then that nothing would induce me to be a candidate for the presidency. Since then, however, I have had the leisure and inclination to study the matter and have reached a different conclusion, inasmuch as so many assurances have come to me from my countrymen that I would be acceptable as a candidate for this high office. If the American people want me for this high office I shall be only too willing to serve them.

'It is the highest honor in the gift of this nation; what citizen would refuse it? Since studying this subject I am convinced that the office of president is not such a very difficult one to fill, his duties being mainly to execute the laws of congress. Should I be chosen for this exalted position I would execute the laws of congress as faithfully as I have always executed the orders of superiors."

PRESIDENT HOBBS SPEAKS.

Says the Democrats Should Come Out For Mebane.

To the Editor of the Telegram:

There are many reasons why Mr. Mebane should be elected to serve a second term as superintendent of public instruction, and no reason why he should not be. His wise devotion to the duties of the office, his excellent judgment in meeting and overcoming difficulties, his endeavor to serve the whole people irrespection of partisan considerations, and the universal satisfaction which he has given, render it the plain duty of the people to seek his service the next four years. I wish the democrats of Guilford county would come out strong for him next Saturday. I believe wisdom demands this. L. L. Hobbs

A CHARMING HOME

Mr. Caesar Cone Has Built a Fine House and Beautified the Grounds.

Charlotte Observer.

The house of Mr. Caesar Cone, president of the Proximity cotton mill, at Greensboro, is one of the most attractive places, within and without, in the State. Mr. and Mrs Cone are people of refined and cultured tastes, as the house and grounds around will show.

The building is of a very fine quality of brick, and the furniture, the pictures and the books, are handsome and costly.

Mr. Cone has a hot-house of rare flowers. A Charlotte man who was there last week said yesterday that the American Beauties in Mr. Cone's hothouse are as fine as those found in northern floral gardens. There are many other beautiful plants.

Mr. Cone has a large, well-arranged barn for his carriage horses and milk cows. In it he keeps four or five thoroughbred Jerseys for his own use.

There is nothing fancy about the Cone home, but there is all that gives comfort and luxuriousness.

THOMPSON FOR GOVERNOR

Francks Says the Republicans and Populists Have Settled on Him.

News and Observer.

"Who will be the fusion candidate for governor?" I asked State Senator J. A. Francks (Rep.,) of Swain county, who has been here this week attending the meeting of the state board of elections.

"Why, I think it will be Cy Thompson. My people up in the west have about agreed on him."

"Will the republicans consent to your putting a populist at the head of their ticket?"

"Yes, there seems to be little objection to it in the west. The fact is they'll consent to anything to beat the amendment."

Senator Francks went on to say that his own party was solid against the amendment, that he thought at least 95 per cent of the populists opposed it and many democrats would vote against it in his section.

He thinks Reynolds will be re-nominated for lieutenant governor if he cares for it, a republican will be named for secretary of state if Thompson is nominated for governor and that Worth and Ayer will be renominated.

"As to the rest of the ticket," he added, "we are all at sea—except corporation commissioner. I'm a candidate for that. You know there are two to be elected—one from the west and one from the east. I'm a candidate for the western place. My people want me to run for senator again, but I shall decline and stand for nomination for commissioner on the state ticket."

SAVED FROM BURIAL ALIVE.

Mirrior at Mouth Showed Apparent Corpse to be Alive.

Columbia special to the Atlanta Constitution.

On Friday morning Pinckney Sizemore, thirty-five years old, married, collapsed in the office of Magistrate Mauldin, in Greenville, and before doctors could reach him was pronounced dead. The body was removed to his home and there a coroner's jury assembled, viewed the remains, and on the statement of the doctors rendered a verdict of death from heart failure. The funeral was set for Shturday afternoon.

The grave was dug, the mourners had assembled, and the body was about to be interred when the police appeared and ordered a postponement. The body was taken home and a test made which confirmed the suspicion that the man was not dead. The police had been informed by Dr. W. J. Bramlet that he did not believe Sizemore was dead and this caused their summary action.

The man, while having the appearance of death, so far as the face was concerned, had a warm body and breathing could be detected by the use of a mirror at the mouth. The jaws were set and the pupils of the eyes unresponsive to light, but the joints were as supple as in life.

Sizemore's family are in a most nervous state and doctors are doing everything to further heart action No burial will take place until the evidences of death have become unmistakable.

On Friday afternoon Sizemore was arraged in Magistrate Mauldin's office on the charge of stealing his brother's watch. The sheriff had found the watch in Sizemore's pocket. When asked by the magistrate why he had denied having the watch, Sizemore turned pale and sank to the floor, gasping for breath. A doctor was summoned and declared Sizemore was dying. In a short while he was pronounced dead.

The coroner summoned a jury and the verdict was that Sizemore died from natural causes.

THE FIEND OF NERVOUSNESS.

When a woman's mind is constantly filled with nervous unreasoning dread and apprehension it shows that her entire nervous system is disordered and broken down. Nine times in ten it indicates that there is some special disease or weakness of the important and delicate organs which make her a woman. Nine times in ten it means that some instant and radical measures must be taken to save her from complete mental and physical wreck.

"I was so nervous I couldn't bear to hear the sound of my own voice when alone" says Mrs. Nellie Brittenham, of Davenport, Thayer Co., Nebr. "I felt as though there was some one ready to grab me if the least sound was made. I really cannot describe the feelings I had, but I can say I have no such ugly feelings now and I trust I never may again. I was suffering from female weakness and very much from nervous prostration.

"I was not able to do anything. I could not sit up all day. I had not sat up all day since the birth of my baby, four months before I began to take Dr. Pierce's medicines. I took one doctor's medicine for four months but did not get along at all; so, discouraged, I thought I would try Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription and 'Golden Medical Discovery.' I took six bottles of the 'Prescription' and nine of the 'Golden Medical Discovery' and used Dr. Pierce's Pleasant Pellets along with the other medicines, and I can say they have done wonders for me.

"I do all my work now and feel better than for two years. I had not eaten anything for three months except some kind of soup and crackers; now I eat anything I want. I believe I owe my health to Dr. Pierce's medicines."

Discouraged, broken-down women should write to Dr. R. V. Pierce, at Buffalo, N. Y., and learn how carefully he studies into these apparently hopeless cases. He will send without charge, (in a plain sealed envelope) the best advice of a capable, experienced physician.

SEVEN RUNNING SORES CURED

—BY—

Johnston's Sarsaparilla

QUART BOTTLES.

THE GREAT SPRING MEDICINE.

JOHNSTON'S SARSAPARILLA as a Blood Food and Nerve Energizer, is the greatest SPRING MEDICINE ever discovered. It comes as a rich blessing from heaven to the "worn out," the run down, the overworked and debilitated. That "tired feeling," those "sinking spells," the languor and despondency which arise from badly nourished nerves, from thin, vitiated blood and an underfed body, vanish as if by a magic spell. The weariness, lassitude and nervous prostration which accompany the spring-time and the heat of summer, are conquered and banished at once. For every form of neurasthenia, and all ailments of the brain and nerve, insomnia, hysteria and nervousness generally, it is almost a specific. It furnishes the very elements to rebuild worn-out nerve tissues. It feeds brain, nerve centers and nerves, calming and equalizing their action: it makes rich, red, honest blood. Newness of life, new hope, new strength follow its faithful use. It makes the weak strong, and the old young again.

It was the antiquated (but now happily exploded) method in the good old times, to treat Salt Rheum, Scrofula, Cancer and other troublesome disorders arising from BLOOD TAINT with powerful alteratives, such as mercury, arsenic and other mineral agents. It was expected by this treatment that the poison could be killed while the blood was left to course through its channels holding in its circulation the specific germs of the disease. But in this way, every part of the body became more or less diseased. Nothing can be more terrible than a horribly destructive blood taint. It not only attacks virulently the different structures of the body, but many times the bones are honey-combed and destroyed. It often seeks out the nerves and spinal cord, and again it will bring decay and death to some vital organ, as the kidneys, liver or stomach. There is only one scientific method for the cure of blood taint. That is, PURIFICATION! Every particle of the blood must be removed through the excretory channels, the lungs, kidneys, bowels, liver and skin. "First pure, then peaceable." The great restorative, reconstructive and vitalizer of the blood, JOHNSTON'S SARSAPARILLA, not only radically and exhaustively removes the taint, but also removes all mercury, calomel and other minerals, and fills the veins and arteries with the ruby, glowing current of vitality. "The blood is the life." Good health means pure blood. The old and reliable remedy, JOHNSTON'S SARSAPARILLA, is universally regarded as the greatest Blood Purifier ever discovered. This fact is now established beyond question or cavil.

CATARRH: FORERUNNER OF CONSUMPTION.

Few realize what a deep-seated, obstinate disease Catarrh is, regarding it as a simple inflammation of the nose and throat, little or no attention is given it. But, however insignificant it may seem at first, it is serious and far-reaching in its results.

The foul secretions entering the circulation poison the entire system. The stomach, kidneys—in fact all the organs—feel the effect of this catarrhal poison, and when the lungs are reached its progress is rapid and destructive, and finally ends in consumption.

It frequently happens that the senses of hearing and smell are in part or entirely lost, the soft bones of the nose eaten into and destroyed, causing intense suffering and greatly disfiguring the face. While sprays, washes and salves may give temporary relief, no permanent benefit can be expected from such treatment.

CATARRH IS A CONSTITUTIONAL OR BLOOD DISEASE, and far beyond the reach of mere local remedies. Those who rely upon them for a cure lose valuable time, meet with disappointment and allow the disease to take firmer hold. Only a real blood remedy can reach this troublesome and dangerous disease.

S. S. S cures Catarrh because it first cleanses and builds up the blood, purifies it, makes it rich and healthy, stimulates and puts new life into the sluggish worn-out organs, and thus relieves the system of all poisonous accumulations.

Mrs. Josephine Polhill, of Due West, S. C., writes: "I had Catarrh, which became so deep-seated that I was entirely deaf in one ear, and all inside of my nose, including part of the bone, sloughed off. When the disease had gone this far the physician gave me up as incurable. I determined to try S. S. S. as a last resort, and began to improve at once. It seemed to get at the seat of the disease, and after a few weeks' treatment I was entirely cured, and for more than seven years have had no sign of the disease."

S. S. S. is made of roots, herbs and barks of wonderful tonical and purifying properties. It is the only vegetable blood purifier known, and a certain and safe cure for all blood troubles. Send for our book on Blood and Skin Diseases, and at the same time write our physicians about your case. They will cheerfully give you information or advice wanted. We make no charge for this.

ROBERT HARDY'S SEVEN DAYS

A DREAM AND ITS CONSEQUENCES.

By Rev. CHARLES M. SHELDON.
Author of "In His Steps," "The Crucifixion of Philip Strong," "Malcom Kirk," Etc.

[Copyright, 1900, by Advance Publishing Co.]

CHAPTER V.

Mr. Hardy was a man of great will power, but this scene with his drunken son crushed him for a moment and seemed to take the very soul out of him. Mrs. Hardy at first uttered a wild cry and then ran forward and, seizing her elder boy, almost dragged him into the house, while Mr. Hardy, recovering from his first shock, looked sternly at the companions of the boy and then shut the door. That night was a night of sorrow in that family. The sorrow of death is not to be compared with it.

But morning came, as it comes alike to the condemned criminal and to the pure hearted child on a holiday, and after a brief and troubled rest Mr. Hardy awoke to his second day, the memory of the night coming to him at first as an ugly dream, but afterward as a terrible reality. His boy drunk! He could not make it seem possible. Yet there in the next room he lay in a drunken stupor, sleeping off the effects of his debauch of the night before. Mr. Hardy fell on his knees and prayed for mercy, again repeating the words, "Almighty God, help me to use the remaining days in the wisest and best manner." Then calming himself by a tremendous effort the rose up and faced the day's work as bravely as any man under such circumstances could.

After a family council, in which all of them were drawn nearer together than they ever had been before on account of their troubles, Mr. Hardy outlined the day's work something as follows:

First, he would go and see James Caxton and talk over the affair with him and Clara. Then he would go down to the office and arrange some necessary details of his business. If possible, he would come home to lunch. In the afternoon he would go to poor Scoville's funeral, which had been arranged for 2 o'clock. Mrs. Hardy announced her intention to go also. Then Mr. Hardy thought he would have a visit with George and spend the evening at home arranging matters with reference to his own death. With this programme in mind he finally went away after an affectionate leave taking with his wife and children.

George slept heavily until the middle of the forenoon and then awoke with a raging headache. Bess had several times during the morning stolen into the room to see if her brother were awake. When he did finally turn over and open his eyes, he saw the young girl standing by the bedside. He groaned as he recalled the night and his mother's look, and Bess said timidly as she laid her hand on his forehead:

"George, I'm so sorry for you! Don't you feel well?"

"I feel as if my head would split open. It aches as if some one was chopping wood inside of it."

"What makes you feel so?" asked Bess innocently. "Did you eat too much supper at the Bramleys'?"

Bess had never seen any one drunk before, and when George was helped to bed the night before by his father and mother she did not understand his condition. She had always adored her big brother. It was not strange she had no idea of his habits.

George looked at his small sister curiously; then, under an impulse he could not explain, he drew her nearer to him and said:

"Bess, I'm a bad fellow. I was drunk last night! Drunk—do you understand? And I've nearly killed mother!"

Bess was aghast at the confession. She put out her hand again.

"Oh, no, George!" Then with a swift revulsion of feeling she drew back and said, "How could you, with father feeling as he does?"

And little Bess, who was a creature of very impulsive emotions, sat down crying on what she supposed was a cushion, but which was George's tall hat, accidentally covered with one end of a comforter which had slipped off the bed. Bess was a very plump little creature, and as she picked herself up and held up the hat George angrily exclaimed:

"You're always smashing my things!" But the next minute he was sorry for the words.

Bess retreated toward the door, quivering under the injustice of the charge. At the door she halted. She had something of Clara's passionate temper, and once in awhile she let even her adored brother George feel it, small as she was.

"George Hardy, if you think more of your old stovepipe hat than you do of your sister, all right. You'll never get any more of my mouth's allowance. And if I do smash your things I don't come home drunk at night and break mother's heart. That's what she's crying about this morning—that and father's queer ways. Oh, dear, I don't want to live; life is so full of trouble!" And little 12-year-old Bess sobbed in genuine sorrow.

George forgot his headache a minute.

"Come, Bess, come and kiss and make up. Honest, now, I didn't mean it. I was bad to say what I did. I'll buy a dozen hats and let you sit on them for fun. Don't go away angry. I'm so miserable."

He lay down and groaned, and Bess went to him immediately, all her anger vanished.

"Oh, let me get you something to drive away your headache, and I'll bring you up something nice to eat! Mother had Norah save something for you. Didn't you, mother?"

Bessie asked the question just as her mother came in.

Mrs. Hardy said "Yes" and, going up to George, sat down by him and laid her hand on his head, as his sister had done.

The boy moved uneasily. He saw the marks of great suffering on his mother's face, but he said nothing to express sorrow for his disgrace.

"Bess, will you go and get George his breakfast?" asked Mrs. Hardy, and the minute she was gone the mother turned to her son and said:

"George, do you love me?"

George had been expecting something different. He looked at his mother as the tears fell over her face, and all that was still good in him rose up in rebellion against the animal part. He seized his mother's hand and carried it to his lips, kissed it reverently and said in a low tone:

"Mother, I am unworthy. If you knew"—

He checked himself, as if on the verge of confession. His mother waited anxiously and then asked:

"Won't you tell me all?"

"No; I can't."

George shuddered, and at that moment Bess came in bearing a tray with toast and eggs and coffee. Mrs. Hardy left Bess to look after her brother and went out of the room almost abruptly. George looked ashamed and after eating a little told Bess to take the things away. She looked grieved; and he said:

"Can't help it. I'm not hungry. Besides, I don't deserve all this attention. Say, Bess, is father still acting under his impression, or dream, or whatever it was?"

"Yes; he is," replied Bess with much seriousness, "and he is ever so good now and kisses mother and all of us goodby in the morning, and he is kind and ever so good. I don't believe he is in his right mind. Will said yesterday he thought father was non campus meant us, and then he wouldn't tell me what it meant, but I guess he doesn't think father is just right intellectually."

Now and then Bess got hold of a big word and used it a great deal. She said "intellectually" over twice, and George laughed a little, but it was a bitter laugh, not such as a boy of his age has any business to possess. He lay down and appeared to be thinking and after awhile said aloud:

"I wonder if he wouldn't let me have some money while he's feeling that way?"

"Who?" queried Bess. "Father?"

"What! You here still, Curiosity? Better take these things down stairs."

George spoke with his "headache tone," as Clara called it, and Bess without reply gathered up the tray things and went out, while George continued to figure out in his hardly yet sober brain the possibility of his father letting him have more money with which to gamble, and yet in the very next room Mrs. Hardy knelt in an agony of petition for that firstborn, crying out of her heart:

"O God, it is more than I can bear! To see him growing away from me so! Dear Lord, be thou merciful to me. Bring him back again to the life he used to live! How proud I was of him! What a joy he was to me! And now, and now! O gracious Father, if thou art truly compassionate, hear me! Has not this foul demon of drink done harm enough? That it should still come into my home! Ah, but I have been indifferent to the cries of other women, but now it strikes me! Spare me, great and powerful Almighty! My boy! my heart's hunger is for him! I would rather see him dead than see him as I saw him last night. Spare me! spare me, O God!"

Thus the mother prayed, dry eyed and almost despairing, while he for whom she prayed that heartbroken prayer calculated, with growing coldness of mind, the chances of getting more money from his father to use in drink and at the gaming table.

O appetite, and thou spirit of gambling! Ye are twin demons with whom many a fair browed young soul today is marching arm in arm down the dread pavement of hell's vestibule, lined with grinning skeletons of past victims, and yet men gravely discuss the probability of evil and think there is no special danger in a little speculation now and then.

Parents say, "Oh, my boy wouldn't do such a thing!" But how many know really and truly what their boy is really doing, and how many of the young men would dare reveal to their mothers or fathers the places where they have been and the amusements they have tasted and the things for which they have spent their money?

* * * * * * *

Mr. Hardy went at once to his neighbors, the Caxtons, who lived only a block away. He had not been on speaking terms with the family for some time, and he dreaded the interview with the sensitive dread of a very proud and stern willed man. But two days had made a great change in him. He was a new man in Christ Jesus, and as he rang the bell he prayed for wisdom and humility.

James himself came to the door with his overcoat on and hat in hand, evidently just ready to go down town. He started back at seeing Mr. Hardy.

"Are you going down town? I will not come in then, but walk along with you," said Mr. Hardy quietly.

So James came out, and the two walked along together. There was an awkward pause for a minute; then Mr. Hardy said:

"James, is it true that you and Clara are engaged?"

"No, sir; that—is—not exactly what you might call engaged. We would like to be."

Mr. Hardy smiled in spite of himself, and James added in a quickened tone, "We would like to be, with your consent, sir."

Mr. Hardy walked on thoughtfully and then glanced at the young man at his side. He was 6 feet tall, not very handsome, as Bessie had frankly said, but he had a good face, a steady, clear blue eye and resolute air, as of one who was willing to work hard to get what he wanted. Mr. Hardy could not help contrasting him with his own prematurely broken down son George, and he groaned inwardly as he thought of the foolish pride that would bar the doors of his family to a young man like James Caxton simply because he was poor and because his father had won in a contested election in which the two older men were candidates for the same office.

It did not take long to think all this. Then he said, looking again at the young man with a businesslike look:

"Supposing you had my permission, what are your prospects for supporting my daughter? She has always had everything she wanted. What could you give her?"

"James, is it true that you and Clara are engaged?"

The question might have seemed cold and businesslike. The tone was thoughtful and serious.

A light flashed into James' eyes, but he said simply: "I am in a position to make a thousand dollars a year next spring. I earn something extra with my pen at home."

Mr. Hardy did not reply to this. He said, "Do you know what a willful, quick tempered girl Clara is?"

"I have known her from a little child, Mr. Hardy. I feel as if I knew her about as well as you do."

"Perhaps you know her better than I do. I do not know my child as I should."

The tone was not bitter, but intensely sad. The young man had, of course, been greatly wondering at this talk from Mr. Hardy and had observed the change in his manner and his speech. He looked at him now and noted the pale, almost haggard, face and his extremely thoughtful appearance.

"Mr. Hardy," said James frankly, "you are in trouble. I wish I could"—

"Thank you. No, you can't help me any in this except," continued Mr. Hardy, with a faint smile, "except you solve this trouble between you and my daughter."

"There is no trouble between us, sir," replied James simply. "You know I love her and have loved her for a long time, and I believe I am able to support her and make her happy. Won't you give your consent, sir? We are not children. We know our minds."

James was beginning to speak very earnestly. He was beginning to hope that the stern, proud man who had so curtly dismissed him a little while before would in some unaccountable manner relent and give him his heart's desire.

Mr. Hardy walked along in silence a little way. Then he said almost abruptly:

"James, do you drink?"

"No, sir."

"Or gamble?"

"You forget my mother, Mr. Hardy." The reply was almost stern.

Mrs. Caxton's younger brother had been ruined by gambling. He had come to the house one night, and in a fit of anger because his sister would not give him money to carry on his speculation he had threatened her life. James had interposed and at the risk of his own life had probably saved his mother's. Mrs. Caxton had been so unnerved by the scene that her health had suffered from it seriously. All this had happened when James was growing out of boyhood. But not a day had passed that the young man did not see a sad result of that great gambling passion in his own mother's face and bearing. He loathed the thought of a vice so debasing that it ignored all the tender ties of kindred and was ready to stop at nothing in order to get means for its exercise.

Mr. Hardy knew the story, and he exclaimed: "Forgive me, James. I did not think." Then, after a pause: "Are you a Christian? I mean do you have a faith in the revelation of God to men through Jesus Christ, and do you try to live according to his teachings, with a supreme love for God controlling life? Do you live every day as if it might be the last you would have to live?"

James started. Was Mr. Hardy out of his mind? He had never heard him talk like this before. The idea of Mr. Hardy caring about his religious character in the event of his becoming a son-in-law was an idea too remote for occurrence. He could see, however, that some very powerful change had taken place in Mr. Hardy's usual demeanor. His words also produced a strong effect upon the young man. He was like thousands of young men—temperate, honest, industrious, free from vices, strictly moral, but without any decided religious faith.

"Am I a Christian?" he asked himself, echoing Mr. Hardy's question. No; he could not say that he was. He had never said so to any one. He had, in fact, never been confronted with the question before. So he replied to Mr. Hardy:

"No, sir; I don't think I am what would be called a Christian. As for living as if every day were to be my last—do you think that is possible, sir?"

Mr. Hardy did not answer. He walked along thoughtfully. In the course of the conversation they had reached the corner where the young man turned down to his office, and the two paused.

"I want to have another talk with you," Mr. Hardy said. "Today is Tuesday; say tomorrow evening. I want to see your father also, and"— Mr. Hardy was on the point of saying that he wanted to ask the elder Caxton's forgiveness, but for some reason he stopped without doing so.

James exclaimed eagerly as Mr. Hardy turned to go:

"Then you don't forbid my entertaining some hope of your good will in the matter of my love for Clara?" He lowered his voice and spoke very strongly. "You don't forget your own youth and the way in which you yourself began your home?"

Mr. Hardy answered never a word to this appeal, but looked into the young man's face with a gaze he did not forget all day, then wrung his hand and turned on his heel abruptly and walked rapidly down the street.

James looked after him as he disappeared among the crowds of people going to their business, and then turned to his own tasks. But something in him gave him hope. Another something appealed all day to his inner nature, and he could not shake off the impression of Mr. Hardy's question, "Are you a Christian?" And even when he went home at night that question pursued him more strenuously than any other and would not give him peace.

WINE OF CARDUI

Woman's Crowning Virtue.

BELTON, Mo., July 27.

For years I suffered terrible pains every month and my doctor told me I could not be cured except by an operation. I felt I could not submit to that and was so despondent I had given up all hopes of a cure. My husband insisted on my trying Wine of Cardui and at last thank God I did try it. Last month I did not have a pain, and did all my work, which I had not done in seven years.

MRS. MINNIE LITTLE.

McELREE'S Wine of Cardui

Modesty is the crowning virtue of American women. It is the trait that all mankind admires. A modest woman is the most pleasing of all created things. Because of this becoming virtue thousands of women prefer to suffer untold miseries rather than confide their troubles to a physician, and to even think of submitting to an examination is revolting. They can't get their own consent to an operation. Wine of Cardui permits sensitive women to retain their modesty. With it they can cure "female troubles" in the quiet of their own rooms. If special treatment is required they can write to the Advisory Department of the Chattanooga Medicine Co., and their letters will be promptly answered by women trained in the cure of womanly weaknesses and irregularities. There should be no hesitation. Delayed treatment means a chronic condition. The longer postponed the harder to cure.

Mr. and Mrs. S. A. Hodgin, of Raleigh, are here this week stopping at 2 0 West Washington street. Mr. Hodgin is in the revenue business, and is here attending federal court. Mrs. Hodgin has relatives here and a large circle of friends.

Mr. Wildman's Last Sermon

Mr. Wildman preached his last sermon lastnight to a large congregation. "The blood of Jesus Christ, His Son cleanseth us from all sin," was the text. The doctrine of the Atonement was presented with great clearness and power. The coming of Mr. Wildman to Greensboro was a great blessing to Washington Street church and to all who heard his excellent sermons. In this day when people are being carried away by every doctrine that comes along it is refreshing and exceedingly helpful to hear the old Gospel preached in such plainness and power. Mr. Wildman captured the Washington Street people and carried their hearts away with him. He is an exceptionally fine Gospel preacher, and a cultured, genial gentleman. He promises to visit us again soon, and he will receive a warm welcome when he comes.

GONE AFTER PRISONERS.

Sheriff Gilmer and Two Deputies Will Bring Them Home.

For several weeks Guilford county prisoners have been confined in Winston jail, on account of smallpox infection in the jail here. There are now thirteen of them there, and our jail being pronounced safe by the health authorities, Sheriff Gilmer and two deputies, Messrs. W. J. Weatherly and W. C. Weaver, have gone to Winston this afternoon after them.

The officers are not superstitious, and will bring the whole batch—thirteen—at one trip. They will arrive at 6:10 this afternoon. It is expected that the new jail will have a part of its cells ready for prisoners by the first of May.

THE TELEGRAM MOVING.

Tomorrow Will Find Us in Our New Home.

The Telegram is moving this afternoon into its new and more desirable home, the first door south of the postoffice on South Elm street, where we will be glad to have our friends call and see us. Our new press has been installed there and the other equipment will soon be in.

When we get everything in perfect working order in our new home we will be much better prepared to serve our patrons promptly and satisfactorily both as to advertising and job work. Our friends down the street have been good neighbors, and we are not leaving them. The local man will be ever at their command, ready and anxious to serve them. When you come up street after your mail, come in and leave your change of ad. or order for job printing.

Remember, tomorrow we will be in our new home, and while everything may not then be in "apple pie" order, we will be glad to see you.

MORE HOMES NEEDED.

Y. M. C. A. Convention Will be Largely Attended.

The state convention of the Young Men's Christian Association meets in the First Presbyterian church, this city tomorrow night at 7:30. At 4 p. m. there will be a preparatory service in charge of Rev. A. T. Graham, of Davidson.

Up to this time 170 delegates have already sent in their names, and so far there are homes for only about 125. Let all those who will help in entertaining the delegates send in their names at once to Mr. Lee G. Wharton at Wharton Bros bookstore. Please report this evening, as the delegates will begin arriving tomorrow, and homes for them must be provided before their arrival.

The people of the city are cordially invited to attend all the meetings of the convention, both day and night.

Recital at the Normal College.

The Richmond (Va.) Times says: "The Rogers-Grilley recital, being the second of the Members' Course of entertainments of the Y. M. C. A., was a most artistic success last night at the hall of the association.

"Mr. Rogers is truly an artist of the very highest rank, and his touch on the harp is both energetic and gentle, as occasion demands. His selections were well chosen and finely executed, especially Alvais Serenade Op. 83, which gave him an opportunity to display his marvelous touch.

"The recitations and humorosities of Mr. Grilley kept the audience in a roar all the time he was on the stage, and his changes from grave to gay proved him a master of his art.

"These two gentlemen were worthy of the large and cultured audience that enjoyed their entertainment, and the members of the Y. M. C. A. are to be congratulated upon having such attractions placed before them for their delectation."

These gentlemen appear at the Normal College Friday night, April 6, being the fifth in the course of entertainments. Admission, 25 cents.

William Morris.

William Morris, who starred successfully in "Under the Red Robe," "The Lost Paradise," etc., will be seen at the academy of music Friday night in Anthony Hope's greatest comedy, "The Adventures of Lady Ursula." He is supported by Miss Francis Drake and an excellent company.

STOLE FROM A BUGGY.

Grip Containing Clothing and Some Valuable Papers.

Last night Mr. Moses H. Cone and Hon. James H. Pou, of Raleigh, drove out to Mr. R. R. King's residence, and left their buggy in the grove near the front gate. In the buggy was Mr. Pou's valise, containing some clothing and valuable papers. When the gentlemen came back to the buggy the valise was gone.

The theft was reported to Chief of Police Scott, who instituted search. This morning the valise and papers were found in a swampy place not far from the old McMahon factory building. The clothes were gone, and the valise had been cut with a knife and will be of no more service. The clothing was valuable, but the papers were by far of the most importance, and they were found. The thief is unknown. Mr. Scott was offered a reward of $25 to find the things, which he refused. He would like now to capture the thief, and the man had better look sharp or he will wear bracelets.

Store Broken Open.

The grocery store of Messrs. Knight & Raney, corner Mendenhall and Spring Garden streets, was entered last night and several articles stolen. The money drawer was smashed and $2.75 in cash secured. The thief entered the building by breaking open the front door by main force. No key was used but the door was literally broken down.

A new line of ladies belts, including pulley belts, invisible buckle belts, white belts, and fancy silk belts, have just been put on sale at Thacker & Brockman's. They have also just received a new lot of ladies purses, ranging from 25 cents to $1.00 each.

When you get ready to buy mattings, carpets, art squares or rugs, don't fail to look through the assortment of these goods shown at Thacker & Brockmann's.

There will be a meeting of the Southside Hose Company Thursday night at 8 o'clock. A full attendance is desired, as officers will be elected in a few days. J. S. Barnes, Vice-Pres.

THE ENDEAVOR CONVENTION.

Miss Bays Makes a Statement Concerning Expenses and the Work.

To the Editor of the Telegram:

The commissioner of railroads has notified me that the usual reduction in rate will be granted on account of the Christian Endeavor Convention to be held in Raleigh April 26-29. Tickets will be on sale April 24, 25 and 26 and will be good to return until May 1. The expense will not be great from any point in the state and every C. E. Society should arrange at once to send delegates to the convention. It will be worth the cost of the ticket to hear Mr. Shaw alone, but in addition to this there will be many other interesting and helpful features on the program. It is the duty of all North Carolina Endeavorers to make "Raleigh 1900" convention the best convention in every way tha we have had in our history.

Tommy—"Pop, what is the difference between practice and theory?" Tommy's Pop—"Perhaps I can illustrate by the case of the doctor who has a great many theories, but no practice."

Willie—"My father keeps his own carriage." Jimmy—"Huh! My father keeps a livery stable."

"A man can't be expected to settle down," says the Manayunk Philosopher, "when he can't settle up."

Any man will agree that there is no place like home, providing the title "inmate" can't be applied to him.

The only people who make an effort to live up to their convictions nowadays are inmates of the penitentiaries.

"This medicine is a fake," declared the irate invalid; "you guaranteed it to cure after all others failed, but it hasn't done me a bit of good." "Maybe," returned the vendor, cautiously, 'you did't try all others."

REMARKABLE CURE OF RHEUMATISM.

Kenna, Jackson Co., W. Va.

About three years ago my wife had an attack of rheumatism which confined her to her bed for over a month and rendered her unable to walk a step without assistance, her limbs being swollen double their normal size. Mr. S. Maddox insisted on my using Chamberlain's Pain Balm. I purchased a fifty-cent bottle and used it according to the directions and the next morning she walked to breakfast without assistance in any manner, and she has not had a single attack since.—A. B. Next to the Consumer is where we stand in the lumber business. At the kicking post, as it were, in regard to prices.
First comes the owner of the timber. He just woke up to the value of it and wants double last year's prices. Then the sawmill man. He has not been making a fortune and thinks now he should share a little in the general prosperity
They say to us: "We must have so much for our trees and work." After a while it is "up to you." Don't kick. You don't suppose we have nerve enough to put up prices unless they had first been put up on us. No, indeed. But prices are NOT high. They have been to low and are just now getting reasonable. Your children will be glad to build at double the price it now costs you. It is a trite, but true saying, if you want to build, "Now is the time."
And ours is the place to get the stuff.
